Plena Voice Alarm System

BOSCH

Invented for life

The versatile public address solution with message- and BGM routing.

For years the Plena family has provided reliable public address solutions. Plena Voice Alarm System extends these possibilities towards bigger multi-zone applications. The system is not only versatile but also easily upgraded with minimum investment in new equipment.

A high level of integration

The Plena Voice Alarm System is a full public address system with built-in 6-zone system controller, 240 W power amplifier, BGM routing and message manager. With system routers, it can be expanded up to 60 zones. Call stations are connected in a daisy chain configuration. By adding a Plena BGM source, a complete sound management system is realized.

For small- to medium-sized applications

The Plena Voice Alarm System is an ideal solution for applications ranging from small supermarkets and schools to busy shopping centres. Many of these public address users will soon be required to have emergency evacuation systems, so Plena is a perfect solution for making the transition.

Cost-effective upgrade to voice alarm

The high-level of functional integration means virtually no external equipment is needed to meet future voice alarm requirements. With full system supervision, comprehensive front panel controls and indicators, spare amplifier switching, EMG microphone and message manager built-in, the cost of upgrading to comply with IEC60849 (and its national equivalents) is low. In fact, the system is fully certified for IEC60849 by the TÜV.

Low cost of installation and ownership

Because Plena is rugged, easy to understand and designed for future expansion, it is cost-effective to install. The use of standard materials like CAT5 cabling for the interconnection of system elements, add to the potential cost savings. And thanks to Bosch quality and reliability, Plena offers the end-user, a lower cost of ownership.

Part of the Plena Family

As part of the Plena family, the Voice Alarm System is designed to be combined with other products from the comprehensive range. Plena power amplifiers are easily integrated if additional power is required. Furthermore, it underlines the Plena Plug-and-Play philosophy in terms of ease of installation, expansion and operation.
